Like you, I have been following the COVID-19 news intently and adjusting how I conduct my everyday personal and business activities.

Although we find ourselves living in extraordinary times, history is filled with all sorts of extraordinary times where people have continued to persevere and overcome by staying calm and working together for the good of all.

As a real estate professional, the well being of my clients, colleagues and the public is paramount. As the real estate industry has been deemed essential by our government, I want to assure you that I have taken measures to adjust daily business practices to follow the health and safety guidelines of public health officials while continuing to offer the high standard of real estate service you have expected of me. Keep in mind, we are also living in fortunate times where we can still connect, communicate and conduct business electronically via the internet.

I am here for you. I am available anytime by phone and email. And although you may not always see me face to face, I am still working behind the scenes to make sure your real estate needs are met and transactions run smoothly.

COVID-19 has affected each one of us without question but as history has taught us it is no match for human resilience especially when each one of us works together for the betterment of all. We may be living in challenging times, but we also live in an era of great technological, medical and scientific advancements to name a few. So in the meantime, stay safe, stay calm, stay positive. We will get through this.

Together in real estate and in life,

Rob
